Independent Audiologists Australia

Before deciding which approach is best for you we suggest that you consult an Independent Audiologist first to discuss all available treatment options. The consultation fee you pay for the services of an independent audiologist could prevent you wasting thousands of dollars on hearing aids that are not suitable for you. South Australia Speech and Hearing Centre is a proud member of Independent Audiologists Australia.

Why consult an independent audiologist?

- Independent audiologists own and operate their own practices and are fully qualified audiologists.
- Independent audiologists are not owned by or closely affiliated to hearing device manufacturers.
- Independent audiologists provide continuity of service after sale.
- Independent audiologists do not work to sales targets or receive commissions.
- Independent audiologists provide advice and guide your rehabilitation decisions.
- Independent audiologists will deliver professional services tailored to your specific needs.
- Independent audiologists are able to select hearing devices from a range of suppliers tailoring the best product for your needs.
